

[London School of Executive Training]

Admissions Policy

Admission is open to all individuals regardless of their gender, colour, age, marital status, religion, disability or social or economic background. We treat everyone with respect and care and there is no direct or indirect discrimination in the admission and selection process of participants. Admission is offered on first-come, first-served basis, however, LSET reserves the right to scrutinise applications and offer places to the most suitable applicants.

For some of the training programmes prerequisites may be mandatory however, for most training programmes there are no formal educational prerequisites required. Fluency in written and spoken English is required for participants to keep pace with classroom discussions. It would not be an open admission policy rather participants need to demonstrate their professional achievements and financial means to justify their enrolment in the programme.
